

Ten Guiding Principles

1. Every Human Has Potential

We are convinced that all human beings are capable to discover and develop their abilities. Those who are willing to learn, to understand and respect themselves, can muster the energy needed to overcome obstacles.

2. Holistic Learning

Human beings have diverse senses. Holistic learning is achieved through rational arguments, emotions and feelings as well as direct, physical experiencing.

3. Living A Positive Attitude

It is important to bring out the positive aspects of every situation. Looking for alternatives, rather than regretting missed chances, is key. Those who look for the good can find it.

4. Diversity Is Valuable

People with different personal backgrounds can approach tasks from different angles. Therefore, differences need to be actively looked for and nurtured.

5. Respect Prevents Conflict

Respect for different values, opinions, ways of thinking and sentiments are fundamental for friendly social interaction. Without respect, differing interests lead to conflict.

6. Together We Are Stronger

In order to tackle difficult issues, humans need to combine their strengths.

7. Looking for Common Values

In order for humans to tackle problems together, a minimal basis of common values is necessary. These must not be imposed on either side, but need to be negotiated through dialogue.

8. Stabilising the Pillars of Our Bridge

We link projects internally and externally. Commitment in various fields and regions brings together people, cultures and ideas.

9. Appreciation Is Important

All contributions, be they big or small, are equally important for success. We want to recognise and appreciate them.

10. We Contribute Our Services on A Voluntary and Nonpaid Basis

We offer a platform for personal commitment. Our nonpaid services are voluntary and motivated by an inner desire to get involved.
